Excerpt from Bulletin of the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology, Vol. 15: March, 1946 This long slender knife may well have been a razor. It has a slightly curved blade. The handle is thin, flat on one side and convex on the other, and was probably socketed against wood on the flat side. A transverse groove near the end obviously was used in the winding of the cord which probably covered the whole handle. This was found in the Elephant Tomb. Shang Dynasty. Length A larger but similar knife is found on Plate x, K. 61. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
