Excerpt from The Tailor's Scientific Guide: Being a Mathematical Principle for Balancing, Drafting, and Cutting Pantaloons
Gentlemen z - Permit me to present to you for examination a Mathematical System for Balancing, Drafting, and Cutting Pantaloons, arranged from different measures, and represented by different diagrams, giving, for the different shapes and sizes, a correct position to the top, which is the balance the divisions being so arranged upon a square, that they may be cut in any style that fashion or taste may require, leaving the same balance.
